Alcorn State University

July 5 - 22, 2005
Alcorn State, MS

Alcorn State University and the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) have joined forces to conduct an outreach program to teach multi-cultural teenagers from diverse populations about careers in animal science and veterinary medicine. The three-week summer enrichment boarding camp is scheduled to be held July 5 - 22, 2005, at Alcorn State University's main campus in Alcorn State, Mississippi.

The program is designed to provide hands-on experience through wet labs, workshops, and field trips. It allows students to live on a college campus and learn science from university professors and practicing veterinarians working for the United States government. Students will also participate in character and team-building activities and diversity workshops.

Students between the ages of 12 and 16 who have displayed an interest in animal health are eligible to apply for admission to Ag-DISCOVERY (must be at least 12 and no older than 16, as of June 30, 2005).

Please copy the attached materials and distribute to interested students. A complete application package will include 1) the application, 2) a two-page essay entitled, "What I'd Like to Know About Animal Health and Why?", 3) three character references, one of which must be from a teacher or counselor who is not related to you, 4) proof of age, and 5) a signed Student/Parent Contract.

NOTE: The application packet MUST BE postmarked by May 1, 2005.
